Russell,

Sorry to be slow in responding to your inquiries...I was out of the office for almost all of last week.

We are still several weeks away from having a final data report on the ASPECT flight data. Most likely, it will be ready sometime toward the end of April. If it becomes available sooner than that, we will certainly let you know.

As of right now, there are no plans to hold a public meeting to release the data. Most likely, the data would be released by posting it to the EPA Region 7 website, without a public meeting. If EPA decides to hold a public meeting, we will let you know. Likewise, we'll let you know if the Agency decides to simply post the data report to the website. We are very keenly aware of the public's interest in this information.

Thanks,

Chris Whitley

Chris,

Just checking back to see when the report will be release involving the ASPECT plane flight over the Westlake Landfill in Bridgeton, MO. Is it available yet? Will the report be released at a public meeting?

Thanks very much!
